

Wainscott Weekly

June 2, 2017

Spring is definitely in the air and the children are ready for the year to come to a close. That hasn't stopped us from our learning though. We are plugging away at our chapter books which we should finish by the end of next week. In math we are finishing the year with some fun geometry lessons and games. During social studies we worked on identifying the city, town, state, and country we live in. You may have seen the organizer the students created to help them. Please look at this from time to time as many of them were confused and some did not know their addresses. During science we are finishing our plant unit. The students will plant their own tomatoes next week in our garden boxes here at school. As if there wasn't enough at the end of the year; the children had their final testing in aimsweb. Next week we have field day on Wednesday so please have your child dress in loose athletic clothing. Hopefully we will have some more sunshine. Have a great weekend!

We had a great week! It was nice to see a little sunshine in the sky. The students have been working hard reviewing many concepts and skills that we have learned throughout the year. It is amazing how much progress they have all made. As an educator it is a wonderful experience to see students blossom both academically, socially and emotionally. This week and into next we will be conducting end of the year benchmarks. Their hard work is certainly paying off. It is so important to read with your child every night. Developing a love to read is an essential part of their academic journey. There will be no homework packets for the rest of the year. Please check folders for some sheets that may be sent home as homework. I will be sending home our daily fluency read as it is imperative to continue to read every night. We have many fun activities planned for the rest of year and we have been working hard to incorporate both learning and fun into our day. Next Wednesday is Field Day! Get ready to play!

Have a great weekend!
