March 10, 2017

It has been a great week! The students have really been working hard and doing their best work! It is amazing to see their continued growth over the year. The First Graders have been working with place value and decomposing numbers into tens and ones. The Kinders have been working with shapes and identifying their attributes as well as the concept of subtraction. In Reading, the Firsties have read an informational piece about where food comes from.. One group in the Kinders has read the story, Jack and the Wolf. It was a teachable moment about playing tricks on others. They really enjoyed the story. The other group read about Tim and his cat. Please make reading a part of your nightly routine. It is an important piece of the reading process. In Science we started to explore the land of dinosaurs. We will be discovering different types of dinosaurs and how they lived so many years ago. They are all very excited! In Social Studies we are working on American symbols and their significance to our country.

Have a great weekend!

Well we have had another busy week. During reading we have read a funny story about a police officer and his partner Gloria the dog. It is a humorous tale about safety in schools. The other group has been reading another funny story about a girl named Ramona and her sister Beezus. They are cooking dinner for their parents and they too get themselves into a silly predicament. Along with the reading the kids have also been working on verb tenses, and compound words. During math the second grade are wrapping up three digit addition and subtraction while the third graders are polishing up on their multiplication and division skills. The social studies lesson is coming to an end and we will shift gears and start to work on geography. The unit on energy and magnets for science has finished and all did well on their tests. We will now move towards learning about dinosaurs. The dinosaur unit will mesh nicely with our spring play performance of "Dinostars."

We also had a chance to visit blockspot in Southampton which is enjoyable for all including the teachers. Finally a flyer was sent home this week in regards to spirit week, please if your child would like to participate send them in dressed according to the schedule, if not then that is fine too. Have a nice weekend.
